From the main menu, go to
F1 WORLD.

This is the main hub for everything outside of career mode.

Inside F1 WORLD, select PLAY

From there, scroll to the right and click on TIME TRIAL, which is the final tile on the right-hand side.

From the main menu, you'll now be prompted to select your car, select ATLASSIAN WILLIAMS RACING as your team.

To keep things fair, make sure Equal Performance is turned ON.

Even though everyone is using the same car, this setting ensures there are no hidden performance differences. You'll find it in the top right of the screen.

Choose a track

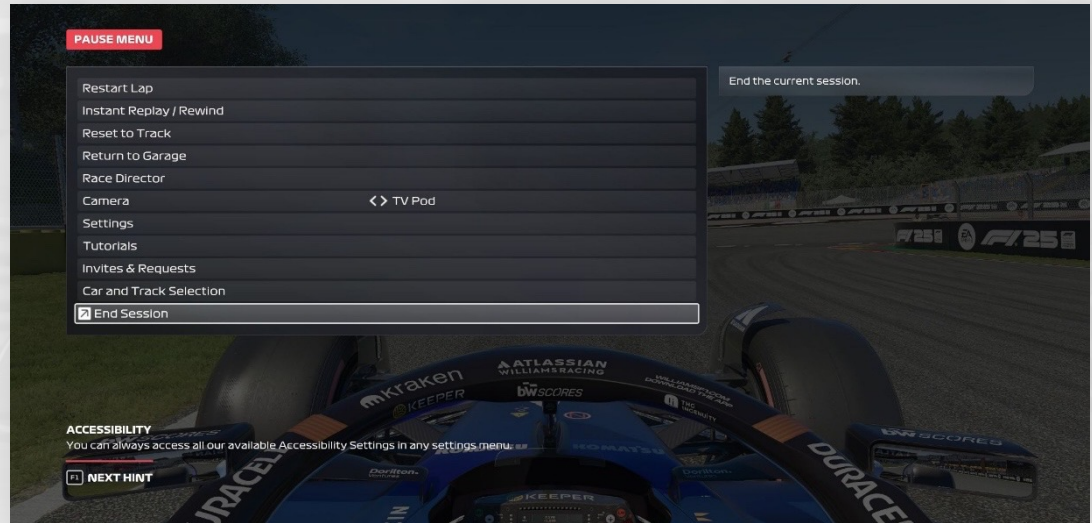

Choose the correct circuit based on the schedule provided.

For example, if the schedule says Albert Park Circuit (Australia), you'll find it listed as AUSTRALIA.

You'll start just before the final 2–3 corners. There is no out-lap, you'll drive through the last corners and immediately start your flying lap when you cross the start/finish line.

You can do as many laps as you like. Once you're happy with your lap time, pause the game and select End Session to view your results screen.

Drive a valid lap

To keep your lap valid, you must have at least one tyre inside the white lines at all times.

If all four tyres go completely over the white line, for example if you cut a corner too early or run wide on exit, the game will mark the lap as invalid as seen in the picture. This can also happen if you drive across runoff areas or kerbs that are outside the legal track surface.

Take a photo or screenshot

Once you're on the results screen, take a clear screenshot or photo as shown in the example.

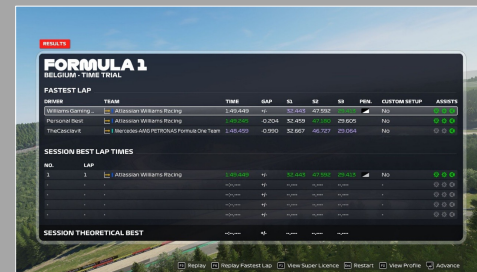

We are looking for your session best lap time, not the personal best from your entire account history.

This means the lap must have been set during that session, and the result must be shown on the post-session screen (after selecting End Session).

Your image must show:

- Your lap time
- The track name
- No penalty/warning icons
- The entire game screen

Use your platform's screenshot tool or take a photo on your phone.
