

What is wind energy?

Wind turbines use the power of wind to make electricity. Wind turns the large blades of a turbine around a rotor. This action spins a generator that generates electricity.

Connect the dots below to see what a wind turbine looks like!

